

The negative control was already imbalanced at baseline

A valid negative control must be balanced before index. This one is not.

Restricting to engaged controls halves the imbalance (3.6x to 1.9x) but does not remove it, so baseline healthcare contact explains part of the carpal excess and not all of it.