

Negative-control calibration

Dividing the seizure estimate by the negative-control estimate removes bias shared by both outcomes

The calibrated estimate crosses the null in the full cohort (1.41) and is borderline in the engagement-restricted one (2.10, 0.97–4.54). It assumes the bias acts equally on both outcomes, which is unverifiable.